

Are you afraid of little things or are you a brave person? Well if you aren't brave, let me tell you about the third little pig from the story: The 3 Little Pigs. He wasn't scared of this big, mean and scary wolf at all. He was one out of 3 pigs, and he was the smart one. All the other pigs' poorly designed houses got blown down by the big, bad, wolf. He has all of these traits and used them to take down the big, bad, wolf. The third little pig was smart enough to build his house out of bricks, he was clever enough to take out the wolf with some hot, boiling water, and he was compassionate enough to let the pigs live with him as well as their mom.

The first reason why the 3rd little pig is admirable is that he is smart. At the end of the story "The 3 Little Pigs", the 3rd little pig took the bricks that a man had given him and built a house with them, because of the material he used the fox was triumphant in blowing his house down. On pgs. 5-6, the author Miles Kelly states, "The man was very tired of carrying the heavy load of bricks so he gladly gave it to the third little pig. The third little pig built a house out of bricks and he lived there very happily. But along came the big bad wolf. Little pig, little pig, let me come in! shouted the wolf. No, no, not by the hair on my chinny chin chin. I'll not let you in, squeaked the third little pig. Then I'll huff and I'll puff, and I'll blow your house down,' yelled the wolf. And he tried and he tried. He huffed and he puffed, and he huffed and he puffed, but he couldn't blow the pig's brick house down." Due to the strength of the bricks, the wolf wasn't able to blow the house down. This shows that the 3rd little pig is smart because he had the common sense that brick was stronger than the other materials therefore not letting the wolf blow it down. Onto the next reason, creative!

The third little pig is creative because instead of doing what his brothers did he looked around for something better or more stable to build his house out of rather than building it out of sticks or straws. So he decided to make his house out of bricks which is more stable and would hold up better. This makes the third little pig creative because otherwise he wouldn't be able to think of a better thing to make his house out of so that it could be more stable and better for him to live in. Evidence to support my claim is on pg 4 when it says "Please may I have that load of bricks to build myself a house?" asked the pig. The man was very tired of carrying the heavy load of bricks so he gladly gave it to the third little pig. "It also shows he's creative on pages 4 and 5 when it says "The third little pig built a house out of bricks, and he lived there very happily." This shows that the 3rd little pig is creative because he was smart enough to make a house out of better material for him to live in safely.

If you like compassionate people then you will love the story about the Three Little Pigs, just the third little pig The trait for this paragraph is compassionate. A reason is that he burned the wolf and went to look for his brothers. The text states," That clever little pig had placed the pot on the fire, right under the chimney. The wolf splattered and out of the big pot "He ran as fast as fast as he could out of the front door, and was never, ever seen again. The third little pig went to look for his two brothers and found them safe and sound. so the three little pigs went and fetched their mother.

In the text, "The Three Little Pigs" the third little pig is an admirable character because he is creative, because he is smart, and most of all because compassionate. He shows creativeness when he builds a house with bricks. He shows that he is smart when he puts a boiling pot of water under the chimney entrance because he knew the wolf was coming into the house that way. The third little pig shows that he is compassionate when he helps his naive little brothers whose house got blown down by the big, bad wolf. These 3 reasons show why the third little pig is an admirable pig because these characteristics are something you can admire in a person/ pig.
