The Jaws of a Appetite

A shark inspired me to design it. The challenge was paint over the colors. I learned how to have many more patients. I want them to know that I worked hard with it.

I used watercolor paint, paintbrushes, and water. I was inspired by a lot of things one being pretty colors and the other being representation. I didn't have any challenges. I learned about blending and it came out nice. I want people to google it and actually find out what i'm talking about.

Amazing world of Riah

For this artwork I used pink and white acrylic paint as well as a pink marker to plan my drawing out. Something that inspired me to do this artwork was the thought of a pattern and my name. A challenge was making sure the paint was smooth on the mask the first time I painted the mask. I learned that with acrylic paint you can add layers once it is dry. I want people to know that your artwork does not have to be luxurious in order for it to be a beautiful piece of art.

I decorated this mask with purple, pink, and blue paint. I really like these colors because they match really nicely with each other. Also they are the colors of the bisexual flag. Pink represents the attraction to girls, blue represents the attraction to boys, and purple represents the attraction to both sexes. I had no problem making this mask, and I think it looks really nice.

I used paint for this artwork. I created this because black and white and the most valid colors, so I used them to create my mask. It was hard for me to get the paint to stick and as you can see it is still messed up a little bit. I learned that I have to take my time with stuff like this. I want people to know that my artwork did take a lot of time.

The materials that I used were acrylic paint and that's it. Nothing really inspired me to create this artwork, I just glanced at a diamond emoji and said to myself "that will look great on my mask". There were two challenges I faced, getting the paint to form correctly and writing the words correctly, but I easily turned those problems into a great masterpiece by staying calm and focused. I learned that when I create a vision and I put my mind to something, I can easily get it done. I want people to just admire and love it as much as I do.

Butterfly

I used a mask and paint. I wanted to do something different and hard, and I thought a butterfly would be perfect. I was starting to get mad because it wasn't looking how I wanted, but I remember to make good art, you first have to make bad art to improve. I learned that not all art has to be a masterpiece. I wanted people to learn that I know how to overcome adversity.

I used five different colors which were pink, white, blue, black and yellow. What inspired me to create this artwork was my liking for gradients. A challenge was placing the yellow on top of the pink and blue blend. I overcame this by waiting for the paint to dry and then using a fair amount of the paint. What I learned from this was that mistakes make you better. I want people to know that my work is expressed through things I like.

For the surgical mask I use a mix of purple & white to make a lighter purple, At first I didn't know what to put so I said what the harm in putting red heart , it will make the mask pop ! It was actually quite hard being able to do the heart I couldn't wait too I put the red hearts on the wet mask which kinda messed of the shape & forms if the heart. I learned that you have too be patient to be able to have a pretty out look, I just want me too say that my mask had pretty colors .

The materials that I use were white acrylic paint and black acrylic paint. What inspired me was that the Yin Yang symbol that has a deeper meaning to me. I learned that you could use a logo that could represent you and incorporate that into your artwork. I want people to learn that you could use a logo that represents you and express that through art.

The materials that used for this art work were black, yellow, white, black, red paint, and paint brushes. I decided I wanted to paint this on the mask because I remembered about Joker and his smile. I had a challenge where the white paint kept mixing with the black but I overcame it by letting that coat dry and I painted it white again. I learned nothing from painting that. I want the viewers of my mask to know that the red stuff is red lipstick and not blood.

Mask Project - A Good Day on a Bad Day

For this project I used paint. Something that inspired me was a bad day so I turned it into a good one. A challenge was getting the water paint on so I used the other paint instead. Something I learned is that flowers are hard to draw. I want people to know that there is always something good at the end of the rainbow.

Among Us

I used paint, a mask and markers. I used the mask, the draw on the paint to make it colorful and the markers to outline the drawing. I did not have any trouble cause it was easy for me. I used google to search what i was going to draw. I learned that I am A better drawer than I think I am. I want people to know that my drawing is based on a game called "Among Us"

A Colorful Protection

The materials I used were a surgical mask, acrylic paint, water and a paintbrush. Once I saw a multicolored mask and it inspired me to make one myself. A challenge that I faced was to make the colors from the paint pigmented enough, but I was able to bring the colors out. From this I learned how to have a steady hand. This artwork took a lot of efforts and a little bit of time.

Mix of Colors

I used all sorts of paint to create this art. what inspired me with this artwork is just using lots of color. the challenge I had to face was the choice of color. what I learned from this artwork is to always have different perspectives of things. what I want people to know about my artwork is how it gives you an insight of difference in an art way.

Polka Dots

The materials used was paint and some markers. I made the polka dots because those are suppose to be little viruses and the mask is suppose to protect you from them. I learn how to mix paint properly. I want people to learn how mask are used.

Surgical Mask recreated

Materials I used were acrylic paint and an acrylic paint paintbrush. What inspired me to create this artwork was the colors itself. I combined them and made pastel colors. I learned how to cover up dark mistakes as well as how to combine colors. I want people to know I did this in one day and even though it was a challenge it came out satisfactory.

Black Lives Matter

I drew this on my mask because BLM is a know topic today in 2020. I decided to but BLM on this mask because all of my family is apart of BLM. BLM is very important because black people are being killed every day.

The Mask of Link

I used a simple blue surgeon mask and then I used acrylic paint to draw out the letter. I used 2 different colors to make purple then I made the letter in a yellow and purple pattern. The idea came to me from a simple lighting bolt.

For my face mask I used my paintbrush and italic paint to make it. I kind of didn't exactly have inspiration but I did have a random idea pop up in my head that helped me proceed throughout my art work. The only challenge I kind of had to face was making sure I left no empty polka dots or unfinished polka dots. I learned that there is a way to be more creative but it's what you put your mind to and actually believe you can do. I would like people to know that even though things seem simple its the hard work you put in and not the thoughts on your work.

The materials I used were markers and sharpies. What inspired me to do this Black Lives Matter Mask is because black lives matter very much to me. The things that are going on aren't right. I want people to know that signs can be made out of anything. You don't have to have a big poster like everyone else. Your way of showing is your way showing.

The materials I used were scissors, silk, and mask. My mom's black silk mask inspired me to make a yellow and blue mask. I had no challenge on the way but the paint mess. I learned teamwork and to be creative I had a lot of fun during this project. I want people to know how to have a creative thing. It does not have to be perfect.

I used The mask
And Markers. A picture inspired
me. A challenge was that it was hard to draw on the mask. I learned that I had a lot of fun. I want people to know that if they try their hardest like I did then they will Succeed.

My mask! The materials that I have used are Markers and my mask! What inspired me was the juicy fruit Watermelon! A challenge was the marker bleeding through the mask, but i tried and it did not come out great but that is ok! I learned the mistakes are what you learn from. I want people to know that things don't come out as expected and that's ok!

Start your paragraph here: I used my sketch pad and pencil. Something that inspired me to make this artwork was because I wanted to show people how I can make it and what I did. One thing that was a challenge was lining my lines up and thinking about what to put. I learned to try my best and keep on working. I want people to know how I did my work and what I did to do it.

I used a black and red marker to create this project. Something that inspired me to do this was my imagination. A challenge that I had to come over was the mask was really hard so it was hard to draw on. I came over it by laying out the mask flat and it became easier. I learned that I can be an artist too. I want the people to know that it's my work.

I used markers and a sharpie pen. What inspired me to do this mask was the game Among Us that I play alot. I had trouble drawing a character venting but I was able to fix it by coloring it black and making it look like the back of the character. I learned that you can always fix your mistakes by adding something new. I want people to know that I worked hard on this mask and that I am proud of myself.

Surgical Mask

In this piece of artwork I used colored pencils and markers. I got the idea from a photo that I saw on the internet. A challenge for me was creating an ombre. I learned that creating an ombre is harder than it looks. I want people to see the different colors I used in my artwork
